Foreword by CavanPPN Chair

It takes a village to raise a child and though all life on earth is an ecosystem, it could be an ecosystem of generosity and abundance and when we begin to improve things at any point we improve them at all points. The good news we now have is that the public and communities are organizing at the grassroots level for their representation.

At the end of the day, we have to all realise we're all on the same side. We can move away from things like Black Friday and move to a more connected community, we can belong in a place we can roll our sleeves up and take part in. To create the future we want for ourselves and our children we have many things we need to do, too many for any one individual. But together we can. By coming together, finding common ground of collaboration we can end up in a better place than where we started. Community is where this happens.

We at CavanPPN have put together this list of funding opportunities for community groups in Cavan. It serves as a guide for your group to fund projects in your fields of interest and expertise. CavanPPN is here to help you define your Problem/Solution impact and we want you to succeed in delivering well-funded bottom-up solutions for the benefit of your community.

- Fiachra Keogh, November 2023

Foreword by CavanPPN Coordinator

Welcome to this funding guide. We recognize that it is sometimes hard to manage funding applications and the windows to do so are often too narrow for volunteers who might only meet sporadically. Therefore, we wanted to give you this handy document to show what funds we advertised in 2023 so that you might know what may be available to you to apply for in 2024.

This is also an opportunity to see how the PPN can be of benefit to you and your groups in helping develop community in our county. Helping to help our County be a better place to call home is the aim of CavanPPN, and we'd love you to be supported with funding opportunities to do the brilliant work you do as part of your group.

On a final note, I'd encourage you as communities to take part in your PPN and to help it work together as a network of hundreds of Cavan groups. To sum up our message in two words, we are all of us:

'BETTER TOGETHER'

- Daniel Downey, November 2023

Introduction– What’s Is The PPN?

Public Participation Networks (PPNs) are networks of community groups across Ireland who work to support community:

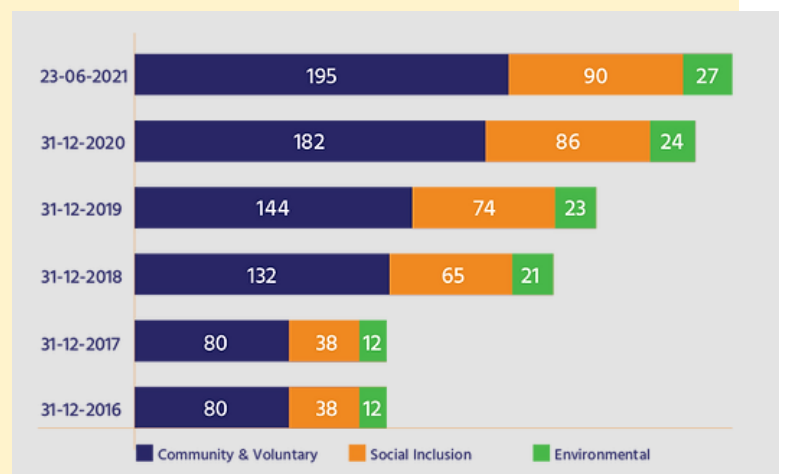

REPRESENTATION CAPACITY BUILDING & NETWORKING

PPNs were launched under The 2014 Local Government Act and on January 27th 2024 will be a decade old. They host over 18,500 community groups nationwide and order these groups both geographically and by pillars of:

ENVIRONMENT SOCIAL INCLUSION & COMMUNITY/VOLUNTARY

CavanPPN has over 350 registered groups in County Cavan who provide REPRESENTATION through 37 elected representatives on 18 boards and committees across the county. It also provides CAPACITY BUILDING through provision of free training, workshops, publications like this and one-to-one development support to member community groups. And finally, we support NETWORKING through hosting countywide Roadshows in each of the areas of Cavan and twice per year host a Plenary Conference for groups to come together and learn about one another and how to work together better on common themes and solutions for community.

PPNs are funded by The Department of Rural and Community Development and County Councils in order to provide community inputs into developing local policies and actions and to ensure a community voice is at the heart of change in our society. Our own PPN is hosted by Cavan County Local Development and CavanPPN has seen constant growth over the years and currently has over 350 community groups registered with it, up from 130 in 2017. We aim to provide a continued support and representative voice for community groups in County Cavan and invite you to contribute your voice to the collective of community voices which make up CavanPPN.

A Short Guide To Funding Your Funding Document

CavanPPN is happy to bring you this guide to community funding. It is by no means an exhaustive guide to funds, but merely a compilation of all the funds we have processed for community groups in County Cavan throughout 2023.

You see, one of the largest issues for community groups is that funding windows are so short. Not enough time to gather your team, consider your work and make the application. Some local funders, particularly LEADER and Peace, are more open calls and pre-advertise many of their funds. But the majority of funders advertise with a limited deadline.

We can't seem to influence the funder in this regard, but we can provide this document to help you to be ready for potential applications going forward. We encourage community leaders to use this document to plan your potential applications going forward and we've collated the data both into yearly quarters and months according to how it was sent to us throughout 2023.

As mentioned, this is not all the funding out there and some of the funding in here may either not be continued into 2024 or may have an alternative date or details. In that case, we would encourage you to reach out and contact the funder to research the fund your group is interested in applying for.

Funders are not 'gatekeepers' of money, but 'shepherds of legacy' and they WANT to get the money out to legitimate community groups that will wisely spend the money on impactful projects. That's why, within their capacity to do so, funders will usually help applicants to successfully make an application and it's always VERY well worth it to reach out to them through the information given.

Finally, we hope this may be a useful resource to you and we'd like to thank the funders for sending their information throughout 2023 to our 353 community groups through our weekly ENews and to you, the groups for making good use of funds to positively change our county.

Making Applications and Approaching Funders

Making applications can be an easy or a grueling process. Some forms and funds can be simple one page documents but others vast labyrinths of administrative and bureaucratic detail. But even these harder ones can be made easy with forward planning and asking the funder for support.

When making an application, first ensure you have all your required information. Most funders of community finance require that you have a committee which meets regularly (and may require AGM minutes to reflect this), at least a constitution to ensure some governance to guide and protect the organization, and records of your financial arrangements to receive and administer the funds.

Beyond this, we come to the project expression of interest. This varies according to the requirements of the funder but all share a few things in common:

They need clarity, essentially a clear and understandable project proposal. Should you be struggling to explain it to someone who knows your organization then the funder will struggle to understand it too. Practice with your team mates.

They need governance. Some form of structure to show that this is not simply an individual applying for community money and that there is a set of rules that determines how the group is run and how its members operate.

They need assurance. Funders are the custodians of money and they not only need to know what it's being spent on but why and how it will be spent. This is to assure the funder that it's a worthwhile investment so that the "money in" will lead to a "results out" end.

So, we encourage you to reach out to the funder of your choice from among the 76 we've detailed here to ask them....

What clarity can we give you on our proposal?

What governance should we demonstrate to you from our community group?

What assurances can we give to consolidate your confidence in your investment?

One final and most VITAL component is team work. You need to spend time with and meet your fellow members to work on applications. Cups of tea are the fuel for community work:

Groups Who Tea Together Succeed Together!

So, we invite you now to come together, look through these funders and consider your options and ideas. Good luck!

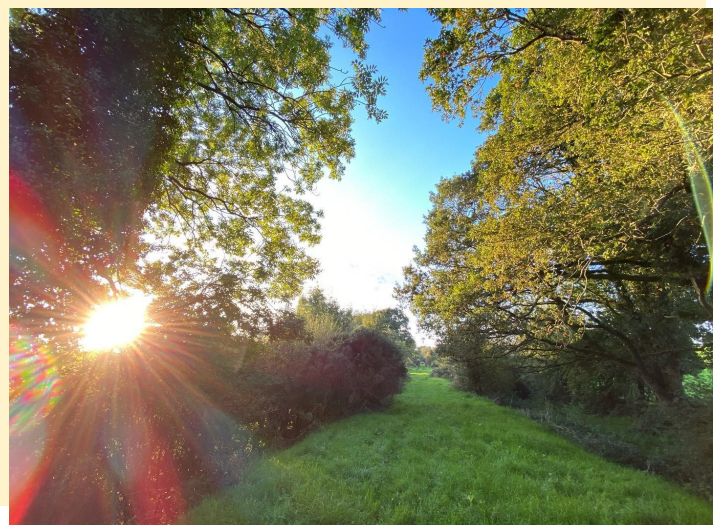

Image: The Old Killeshandra Railway Line.

Managing A Project and Rallying Your Team

So, you've been successful in your application. The money is on its way and your project looks likely to get off the ground. What's next?

First, your group needs to devise what's called a PRODUCTION SCRIPT. This is just a fancy term for a timeline plan. Here's a very simple example:

WHEN	WHAT	WHO	REPORT
NOW	GATHER THE TEAM AND ALLOCATE JOBS	THE CHAIR	X DOES Y Z DOES Q ETC
JANUARY	SORT OUT BANK ACCOUNTS AND START LOOKING FOR QUOTES FOR X.Y.Z	TEAM X (Q,R AND S)	WE DID THAT BUT STILL WAITING ON 1 QUOTE
FEBRUARY	BOOK ALL THE VENUES AND SORT THE GUESTS ALONG WITH ADVERTISING.	ADVERTS—TEAM X	1 GUEST CANCELLED, LOOKING FOR REPLACEMENT.

As you can see, this not only serves as a way to get people engaged but also helps to provide a planned format going forward and as a report you can print to show the funder how organised you are with the challenges met and overcome along the way. It's VERY important to delegate but also make sure the team comes together to make everyone aware of what's going on. It may seem easier for one person to take all on but this both isn't healthy and is against community spirit of empowering everyone to 'own' their project.

A good leader will ENABLE EMPOWERMENT by DISEMPOWERING themselves for the sake of spread ownership.

And the MOST IMPORTANT thing in community projects is TEA! If you only ever come together to talk shop no relationships are built. Always set aside social time for people to chat and get to know one another. When it comes to community groups....

THOSE WHO TEA TOGETHER SUCCEED TOGETHER!!!

Reporting & Oversight & Legacy

Reporting

Reporting is simply the art of keeping track and record of your project. This can be internal (among your members or for yourself) or external (for your funder, partners or public). Reporting is essential to make sure there is an accurate overview of the project and indeed of your community group and helps to recognize key victories and how to improve in your work. Reports can be very simple one-liners or medium templates like the one on the previous page. They can also be VERY detailed and some funders like this level of detail, down to the receipt for the cup of tea you had. Clarify this with your funder. Ask them:

What level of reporting would you like to see throughout the project?

Oversight

Good governance is useless without oversight. No amount of policies or procedures or paperwork can protect a group from bad oversight. Oversight is simply the ability of a group to keep an eye on the life of your project. When it comes to oversight, the leads or lead in a project needs to provide a keen eye on the thresholds of responsibility of the parts of the project and ensure that the requirements are being met. If there's a financial element then someone needs to ensure that the spending is being done within the threshold of the funding allocated and not any way outside that. When someone has responsibility for attendance for an event then someone has to know the data protection for the details of those who attend. Oversight does require a knowledge of policies that group should have to protect themselves and those engaging in the project. Demonstrating these policies and oversight regarding these policies will help improve your chances of application and assuage the fears of funders that they might be allocating money to a project without protections and guidelines.

Legacy

'Legacy' is probably the most overlooked element to a community funded project. In essence this is the impact of the project beyond the lifetime of the project. How does the project positively impact on the area it's in, well after the funding is done and dusted. For example, applying for funding for a village green is great but identify how this green will have a positive impact on the youth of the area, creating a greater sense of belonging for them to their communities and therefore decrease their anti-social behavior toward the area of which they now feel they belong. Funders will love to see this and even more so, to hear from you with a follow on photo or report well after the last penny is spent. It's also a nice way to build an on-going relationship with your funder.

Bursary For Community Workers Training

The Minister of State for Communities, Integration and Charities, Joe O’Brien T.D. has today (Friday, 28th July 2023) announced a bursary fund of €200,000 to support community workers to pursue endorsed postgraduate community work qualifications. The Department of Rural and Community Development (DRCD) has provided funding for the bursary to the All Ireland Endorsement Body (AIEB) for Community Work Education.

The fund has been established to meet a commitment under the government’s five year strategy for the Community and Voluntary sector: Sustainable, Inclusive and Empowered Communities. It responds to a key finding of AIEB’s assessment of education and training needs which calls for affordable and accessible professional community work education for people with degrees already in community work jobs.

The bursary will be available to managers of community organisations, community workers and those who undertake community work duties in associated roles who have graduate degrees but no professional community work qualifications.

The bursary will fund places on the Masters in Community and Youth Work Programme at NUI Maynooth, which will be offered on a part-time basis. The blended mode of delivery of that programme makes it possible for potential bursary applicants also managing workloads and other commitments.

The need for education and training for people with no degrees or qualifications working or involved in community work and associated areas was also strongly identified in responses to the AIEB needs assessment. AIEB is currently developing a pre-professional training initiative for people with no qualifications.

Information about the bursaries is available from bursary@aieb.ie and information on the programme can be provided by the Department of Applied Social Studies in NUI Maynooth.

Sustainable, Inclusive and Empowered Communities

Sustainable, Inclusive and Empowered Communities, 2019-2024, is a five year strategy to support the community and voluntary sector in Ireland. It contains a number of strategic actions including 2.4 and 2.5 which commit the Government to supporting the development of a continuum of training and education opportunities based on the All Ireland Standards for Community Work including for people who are employed, but not qualified in community work, to acquire qualifications. These strategic actions form part of a series of actions which aim to strengthen the capacity of communities to participate in community development and local development initiatives.

All Ireland Endorsement Body (AIEB)

AIEB seeks to support and promote pathways to endorsed professional community work qualifications and the highest standards in community work education and training at all levels. The anticipated outcomes of this work are that it will ensure community work practitioners with the professional competencies required to work as professional community workers, producing quality outcomes for communities and for the organisations within which they work.

LIS Fund

Our Rural Future: Minister Humphreys announces further €16 million in funding for upgrade works on rural roads and laneways

Minister for Rural and Community Development, Heather Humphreys TD, has today announced additional funding of almost €16 million for repairs and improvement works on our rural roads and laneways. The funding, under the Local Improvement Scheme (LIS), will support the continued improvement of non-public roads and lanes that are not normally maintained by local authorities. The funding is more than double the allocation provided last year, and will allow local authorities to address the backlog of applications that they currently face. Today's announcement means that almost €30 million has been allocated under the Local Improvement Scheme this year alone. And almost €130 million has been invested through LIS since the scheme was re-introduced in 2017.

Local Improvement Scheme (LIS)

The LIS was reintroduced in September 2017 and over €113 million has already been provided for works on over 3,700 roads. The additional funding announced today will bring that total to almost €130 million.

Eligible Roads

Eligible roads under the Local Improvement Scheme are:

- Non-public roads that provide access to parcels of agricultural land, or provide access for harvesting purposes (including turf or seaweed) for two or more persons.; or

Acknowledgement & Thanks

Cavan Public Participation Network would like to offer the following acknowledgement and thanks in regard to this document and the general PPN project;

Cavan County Local Development: The host company of CavanPPN has been a positive and pro-active partner for community in Cavan, even before becoming a host to the PPN. The CCLD mission, particularly its SICAP program is helping hundreds if not thousands of people in County Cavan directly and indirectly in their lives.

John Toland and Jane Crudden: John Toland of LEADER and Jane Crudden of Peace have both been incredibly open, supportive and informative partners throughout the years in regard to the best way to make groups funding friendly in their projects. Their example has shown that funders are not guard dogs of money, but supportive custodians to ensure its wiser spending in the community.

The Department of Rural and Community Development: the governmental funder of PPNs nationwide have been weekly supportive and informative for our PPN in receiving funding information to pass on to our member groups. Their information has been instrumental in helping groups make applications.

Cavan County Council: The local funder of PPNs nationwide, Councils are asked to support their PPNs in information, consultation and development. Of particular note are the team in Community & Enterprise who work toward community development and social inclusion countywide.

The Partners & Affiliates: CavanPPN has many partners such as ETB, Local Link, Cavan Sports Partnership and many others. We need to highlight the excellent information they send us which has helped groups keep informed.

The Funders: The many funders are to be thanked. Although they usually only ask for an acknowledgement and logo on funded projects, it is worth noting the hard work that goes into administering these funds, in fighting to keep or increase these funds and in helping groups to be ready to access them.

YOU: Cavan Public Participation Network is made up of, presently, 353 groups and it's the community groups that are the heart of everything we are and do. Without you, we have no communities, only houses. Without you, we have only localities, not societies. Without you we are only people, not a culture. Community groups are often overlooked in the importance of what you bring to the world. A world without community is a world of lonely individuals and a very dry existence. Your work needs to be highlighted as one of the most enriching things in our society. Thanks you, you are all appreciated.

- D. Downey, CavanPPN Coordinator.
